

DAVID FINCHAM AQUACULTURE SPRING NEWSFLASH

Dear Tilapia Farmer

Tilapia Farming is one of the fastest growing agri-businesses worldwide for the past decade. It is well known around the world that major concerns exist about over-fishing, depleting fish stocks, increasing population, food security, and food supply and food quality. Tilapia Farming is a major contributor to the solutions being sought. Tilapia Farming can only contribute if more farmers are developed. Large scale commercial farming operations cannot in the short to medium term develop quickly enough to fill the gap between supply and demand. Our systems are able to establish small to medium scale farms quickly efficiently and cost effectively bringing the quantity, quality and availability of fresh farmed Tilapia to the consumer. David Fincham Aquaculture will arrange demonstrations and talks on our Muldersdrift farm. We are also able to bring our system to the community and demonstrate how effective our systems are and how farmers can benefit from starting a Tilapia Farm. For more information please drop us an email or give us a call.

Any good farmer will know that the success to farming comes from have good quality stock and genetics. To this end we have secured the sole distribution of O.niloticus stock from Til-aqua. The YY super male genetics allow us to provide our clients with superior all male fingerlings. This stock will be available to our farmers by early next year as our broodstock will be landing shortly. We will offer this stock to our farmers at a very competitive market price.

African Agriculture Show

During the 3 day African Farmers Expo held at Oakfield Farm in Muldersdrift our demonstration FarmInaBox System was flooded by visitors and we signed over a 100 small scale farmers onto our list. We will be meeting with various parties to build relationships that will see this interest and excitement in Tilapia Farming being transferred to systems on the ground.
